Rules To Lake By[®]

1. Protect the Awe - Lake Tahoe is mother nature showing off at her best—it's awe and then some. To keep it that way, let's look out for the lake, the mountains, the trails and the trees, the critters and all the people here, too. Let's go big, but let's land lightly—because spots like this are hard to come by.
2. Be Kind By Nature - Make kindness your compass. Whether you're here for a weekend or a lifetime, we're all here for the same reasons. Care for those around you, treat everyone with respect and show some love in the South Shore.
3. Let's Leave Less - In leaving less, we lighten our impact on the lake. So let's pick up our trash, let's clean up after our pets and let's look out for what our neighbors may have left behind, too. When we leave less, we leave more for future generations to enjoy.
4. Park with Heart - To park with heart is to park where we're supposed to park, rather than where we wish we could. It's about sharing our spaces so we can all make the most of them. If that means walking a bit further, there are worse places to take a hike.
5. Enjoy Tahoe Time - It's one thing to be out for a rush, but another to be in one. So, when you're here, be on Tahoe Time. That means savor, don't sprint. Go get after it on our slopes, shores and summits—but practice patience everywhere else.
